A report by the Independent Chief Inspector of Borders and Immigration (ICIBI) found that Adams had presided over a "climate of fear" in which staff were afraid to speak out about wrongdoing.

The report also found that Adams had "failed to take effective action" to address the culture of bullying and harassment within the Border Force.

Adams has denied the allegations, but he has since resigned from his post.

The ICIBI report is the latest in a series of scandals to hit the Border Force in recent years.
